

Planning a new museum – How good is your idea?

You have a great idea for a museum and you're keen to start one. But how do you put that idea to the test? This guide aims to help you decide whether you can turn your dream into a sustainable and financially secure reality.

Content:

Introduction	02	Key questions on running your organisation	12
Defining your purpose	03
What do you have?		What sort of organisation?
What is this for?		What sort of expertise?
Who is this for?		How about your collection?
Convincing the funders		What sort of facilities?
Outcome		What about visitor experience and customer service?
Case study 1: A project that flew – Shear Discovery Centre		Outcome
Case study 2: Only wind in the tussocks – The MacKenzie Heritage Centre		Case study 9: An enterprising organisation – The Kauri Museum
Case study 3: A community resource – Albertland and Districts Museum		Case study 10: Getting a new building 1 – Geraldine Vintage Car and Machinery Museum
Case study 4: Defining a museum's purpose – TheNewDowse		Case study 11: Getting a new building 2 – The Kauri Museum
Take a step back – looking at alternatives	09	Key questions about money	18
Case study 5: The digital museum – Kete Horowhenua		How will you raise money?
Case study 6: Working with your local museum 1 – Motueka District Museum		What is your budget?
Case study 7: Working with other organisations – Wellington City Libraries		Outcome
Case study 8: Working with your local museum 2 – Southland Museum and Art Gallery		Conclusion	22

Published 2007 by National Services Te Paerangi,
Museum of New Zealand Te Papa Tongarewa

PO Box 467, Wellington, New Zealand

Copyright © 2007 Museum of New Zealand
Te Papa Tongarewa

This publication is copyright. Its contents may be photocopied for museum services for purposes of their own staff and volunteer training, but no portion of it may be reprinted for any other purpose without the written permission of the Chief Executive, Museum of New Zealand Te Papa Tongarewa.

ISSN 1175-6462